Weekend Mail Accumulation Swamps Office

Carriers Leave With Double Loads Monday Morning

The staff at the Washington C. H. Post Office was almost, but not quite, back to normal Monday, but operations were anything but nor-

Mail that accumulated during the "economy holiday" Saturday, added to that which came in Sunday, was still piled up in the office despite the double - size loads taken out by the carriers Monday morn-

Postmaster Clark Wickensimer described the conditions in the office Monday morning as "swamped."

Only a skeleton force of clerks was in the office Saturday to sort the mail for delivery. Although they had the help of the rural carriers, who did not go out on their routes, the mail piled up faster than they could "work" it, Vickens i mer

THE "economy holiday" was ordered by Postmaster General Arthur Summerfield when Congress refused to grant his request for all of the $47 million to run the service until June. This meant no rural or city deliveries Saturday and no window service at the office. It was the same throughout the country.

Although the mail had accumulated during the weekend, because of the economy order only one of the five substitutes was at the office Monday to help the regular staff and carriers sort it for delivery. Normally, all five would have been on the job.

When the carriers left Monday morning, Wickensimer said, they had nearly twice the normal loads of mail.

ABOUT ALL the rural carriers could take was the first class mail and newspapers and the parcel post packages. There was only about Dr., plans to enter Duke Universiroom enough left in the cars for ty Durham, N. C., to prepare for the drivers when some of them

While the city carriers were loaded down, too, they did not have to take the parcel post packages. These were being delivered by special truck.

That left the third class mail said "this is being worked up as fast as we can." He expressed the hope that it all could be delivered within the next two or three days. Just how long the economy cutback, which virtually eliminated Saturday service, will continue is not yet certain. Wickensimer Starts Tonight said he has received no further word from the Post Office Depart-

House Nears 'Vote In Post Office Row

WASHINGTON (P) - The House was ready to approve today a bill to give the Postoffice Department another $41 million to restore normal mail service.

The Senate was poised to act, possibly Tuesday, thus clearing the way for Postmaster General Summerfield to call off service cutbacks begun Saturday.

Meanwhile, a second stage of Summerfield's cutback order became effective today. Mail deliveries to city business districts were limited to two a day, and most postoffices went on an 81/2hour schedule.

In advance of the House voting, Chairman Cannon (D-Mo) of the said, "I expect no difficulty."

man of the Senate Appropriations achieve this. subcommittee handling postal funds, said he would urge the Senate to accept the $41 million figure. He feels that's enough to restore all postal services. . . .

SUMMERFIELD has said he will make no move to restore service until the President signs a bill giving him more money.

He has said he must have $47 million to keep full mail service in operation during the remaining 21/2 months of this fiscal year. He has promised to restore all the cuts he can if he gets $41 million.

He rays the supplemental request was prompted by unforeseen costs. He attributed these to unexpectedly heavy mail volume, a need to open new routes to serve spreading residential areas, and a postal pay raise. Congressional critics, including Cannon, have contended Summerfield should have lived within his regular budge of more than $2 billion. They have accused him of violating a law

Tax Money Carelessness Being Exposed

With each succeeding year when the deadline approaches for filing income tax returns, it is becoming easier to und erstand why most people of our nation are becoming more sensitive as to how the federal government collects and spends public revenue.

Judging by the publicity given to this subject this year, public concern over fiscal policies as they are handled down at Washington D. C., has reached lower depths than usual.

It is true that seldom has a spring gone by but that most of us hear people questioning the size of their federal government tax bills, often state and local bills, also. Sometimes the comments become lurid and the efficiency of government operations in handling of money brings forth harsh statements.

For this reason a new feature to cause m or e talk has resulted from the recent disclosure by U. S. Senator John J. Williams, Republican of Delaware.

He recently pointed out that a great many businesses, inculding several thousand in Ohio, are making private use of income tax money automatically deduct e d from their employes' pay checks.

Not long ago he handed newsmen a detailed breakdown of business tax delinquencies which shows that the problem of collecting withholding taxes is getting no better on the national level, and that it is getting progressively worse in Ohio. (He listed more than 13,000 such delinquencies found in the records of the four Internal Revenue offices in this state).

If this information can be sustained, Ohioans generally will welcome any action Congress and the courts take to bring careless, sometimes guilty, employers to a realization as what this means.

More than this, Buckeye taxpayers may wonder why little or nothing has been done to seal so serious a leak in the federal tax-collecting system. Just recently the Internal Revenue Bureau announced that it was going to get tough with individuals who try to chisel on their income

From latest reports the bureau has initiated a record number of "reviews" in the last year or so.

However, it would seem that fed eral investigators have been curiously selective in going after tax-dodgers. Perhaps in the future they will start at the top of the tax lists and go all the way down.

Tax Money Carelessness Being Exposed

With each succeeding year when the deadline approaches for filing income tax returns, it is becoming easier to und erstand why most people of our nation are becoming more sensitive as to how the federal government collects and spends public revenue.

Judging by the publicity given to this subject this year, public concern over fiscal policies as they are handled down at Washington D. C., has reached lower depths than usual.

It is true that seldom has a spring gone by but that most of us hear people questioning the size of their federal government tax bills, often state and local bills, also. Sometimes the comments become lurid and the efficiency of government operations in handling of money brings forth harsh statements.

For this reason a new feature to cause more talk has resulted from the recent disclosure by U. S. Senator John J. Williams, Republican of Delaware.

He recently pointed out that a great many businesses, inculding several thousand in Ohio, are making private use of income tax money automatically deduct e d from their employes' pay checks.

Not long ago he handed newsmen a detailed breakdown of business tax delinquencies which shows that the problem of collecting withholding taxes is getting no better on the national level, and that it is getting progressively worse in Ohio. (He listed more than 13,000 such delinquencies found in the records of the four Internal Revenue offices in this state).

If this information can be sustained, Ohioans generally will welcome any action Congress and the courts take to bring careless, sometimes guilty, employers to a realization as what this means.

More than this, Buckeye taxpayers may wonder why little or nothing has been done to seal so serious a leak in the federal tax-collecting system. Just recently the Internal Revenue Bureau announced that it was going to get tough with individuals who try to chisel on their income

From latest reports the bureau has initiated a record number of "reviews" in the last year or so.

However, it would seem that fed er a l investigators have been curiously selective in going after tax-dodgers. Perhaps in the future they will start at the top of the tax lists and go all the way down.

Good Old Days: Today, Tomorrow

NEW YORK (A) - After 52 years in show business, Fred Astaire would still rather talk with his feet than his face.

One of the most conscious artists of his generation when it comes to his trade, which is dancing, Fred is merely selfconscious when it comes to conversation about himself.

Ask him a question, and immediately his foot begins to swing nervously, as though his sohisticated toes wanted to tap the answer in a Morse code of their own. The man distrusts speech because, unlike a dance step, he can't rehearse and polish it to the perfection he aspires Montego Bay, Jamaica. The flight took 1½ hours. When we arrived everyone was talking about the earthquake the previous evening. It was the worst one in 50 years. When we asked the taxi driver if he was scared, he said "Lord yes, I looked at my car and it was doing the Calipso. I just got hold of a door handle and held on." I'm glad we missed it. As I came away from the beach to-Jamaica is the most tropical island yet. Oranges, bananas, grapefruit, cocoanuts, sugar cane and all types of tropical vegetation grows in abundance. Of course in this climate there are some mosquitoes. If there is a mosquito in a mile, he'll go after Elma. Instead of screens they put a mosquito netting up over your bed. They hang it to the ceiling and it completely encircles your bed. You crawl in a hole on one side and then

Our vacation is about over. Summing up we traveled approximately 3,500 to 4,000 miles and was in the air approxi-mately seventeen hours flying
